Introduction to the Publication Scheme

The Freedom of Information Act (2000) received Royal Assent in November 2000 and came fully into force in January 2005. The Freedom of Information Act provides for a general right of access to information held by public authorities. A requirement of the Freedom of Information Act is to adopt, maintain and review a Publication Scheme.

From January 2009, the Royal Borough of Kensington and Chelsea will be adopting the Information Commissioner's Model Publication Scheme. The Publication Scheme sets out what information the local authority publishes or intends to publish as a matter of course, how this information will be published, and whether the information is available free of charge or on payment.

The Publication Scheme is intended to promote an increasing culture of openness by encouraging the proactive publication of material held by the authority. The purpose of the Scheme is to make sure that a significant and growing amount of information is easily available without the need for individuals to make a specific request.

The Royal Borough will publish information under the following information classes:

- Who we are and what we do
- What we spend and how we spend it
- What our priorities are and how we are doing
- How we make decisions
- Our policies and procedures
- Lists and registers
- Services provided by the Council

It is important to us that the scheme meets your needs. We therefore welcome any questions or comments you might have.

We can be contacted via email at:

Key to locating the information

This document lists information which available to the public under the Publication Scheme from January 2009. This list will be continually amended as new information is made available.

There are three ways in which information will be available via the Publication Scheme:

- 1. A web page, searchable database or a downloadable document via the Royal Borough's Internet site at www.rbkc.gov.uk;
- 2. A printed copy from one of the Council's information offices or contact points.
- 3. A printed copy available for inspection at Council premises.

The following pages provide detail on the format in which a document is available.

In line with the Government's e-Government agenda, the Council aims to make an increasing proportion of its information available electronically on the Internet. In fact the Council's website will be the primary means for distributing information about the Publication Scheme.

However, we recognise that not everyone has the means or the capability to access information via the Internet. Therefore, where possible, we will endeavour to make paper copies available for inspection and upon request.

Where the list on the following pages indicates that a document can be obtained via the web-site, these can be obtained via the Public Access Internet PCs housed in the Libraries. There may be a charge for printing documents using these facilities.

The following symbols are used on the following pages to identify the format in which a document is available.
