The Children's Workforce Development Council (CWDC) currently runs a Playwork Level 3 initiative, where funding could be available to gain this qualification. Please visit <http://www.cwdcouncil.org.uk/playwork> to find out more. Please note that this list of institutions is not exhaustive.

Early Years Professional Status (EYPS)

Early Years Professional Status (EYPS) is not a qualification: it is a new status that will recognise your expertise as a practitioner and a professional leader (Children's Workforce Development Council, 2006).

The Government's aim is to have an Early Years Professional in every full daycare setting by 2015. To become an Early Years Professional (EYP), you need to gain Early Years Professional Status.

The first five years of life are pivotal in a child's development. High quality early years provision can help children achieve their potential and support parents and families. This requires a well trained, well supported and motivated workforce – that's where you come in.

EYPS will be key to raising the quality of provision in early years settings, leading practice across the Early Years Foundation Stage and being a role model for other practitioners in safeguarding and supporting children's learning and development. The status is awarded to people who can demonstrate that they meet a set of national graduate-level EYP Standards when working with children from birth to five.

You can find out more about becoming an EYP and where you can gain this status by following this link: <http://www.cwdcouncil.org.uk/eyps>.

Teaching Assistants

Queensmill Special School

Clancarty Road, Fulham, London SW6 3AA

Job description

Queensmill is a special school for pupils with autism. At our last two Ofsted inspections we were found to be outstanding: "Pupils' progress is assured through committed and highly skilled staff, use of and involvement in the latest research in autism and an incredible passion for pupil learning".

We are looking for several Teaching Assistants to join our large and very enthusiastic staff team. We have two departments, one nursery/primary and one secondary, and the majority of these posts are in the primary department in Clancarty Road.

If you have no experience of autism, please still feel free to apply, as long as you really enjoy being with children and you are hard-working. We can give you in-house training on autism once you are employed here. Some experience of school work would be helpful but not essential.

Our classes are small, up to eight children only, and each class has a teacher, a nursery nurse or higher level teaching assistant, and at least one teaching assistant. Despite all this staffing, it is physically and emotionally demanding work, but if you enjoy the work it is very rewarding, and all of us at Queensmill take huge pleasure at each small step of progress made by our children. Staff and governors of the school are committed to safeguarding and promoting the well-being of all of our children and young people. An enhanced CRB disclosure will be required for successful candidates, as well as verified references, photographic identification, and verification of any necessary overseas eligibility to work in the UK.

Qualifications

For more information or how to apply, please contact Jan Brooks, Business Manager, at the school or: office@queensmill.lbhf.sch.uk.

Salary: Scale 2 point 11 £18,030 – Scale 3 point 17 £20,127 (salary depending on previous experience and pro- rata depending on agreed contractual hours)

Hours of work: pro- rata depending on agreed contractual hours) 39 weeks per annum

Closing date: Friday 18th June

Telephone: 0207 384 2330

Other: Interviews before the end of June. Please note that this vacancy is located in the London Borough of Hammersmith and Fulham.
