1. Introduction to the Royal Borough of Kensington and Chelsea

The Royal Borough of Kensington and Chelsea is an inner London Borough and is one of the most densely populated local authorities in the United Kingdom.

Following the Grenfell Tower Fire tragedy, in which 71 local residents lost their lives in June 2017, the Royal Borough of Kensington and Chelsea has significantly refocused its priorities. As such, the council has undergone a period of great change in order to become an organisation that better meets the true needs of its residents. Its focus is to ensure that residents and communities are put at the very heart of robust decision making processes, and that the implementation of actions and duties are done by highly collaborative and efficient council officers. The organisation is under new senior management, and also new democratic leadership.

Following extensive engagement with local communities, the Royal Borough of Kensington and Chelsea has launched its Council Plan which sets clear its vision and ambitions and how these will be achieved. This new mission is the result of blending what Kensington and Chelsea residents have told the Council, with the political commitment of the majority group on the Council, and evidence of what communities need. Three cross-cutting themes and five priority areas have been identified:

Cross-cutting themes:

- Community involvement;
- Narrowing the gap;
- Prevention and early intervention.

New priorities:

- Grenfell recovery;
- A great place to live, work and learn;
- Supporting and safeguarding vulnerable residents;
- Healthy, clean and safe;
- A place of culture to visit and explore.

The Registration Service currently sits within the department of Environment and Communities at the Royal Borough of Kensington and Chelsea, under the directorate of Libraries, Archives and Registration Services.

The Royal Borough of Kensington and Chelsea's Registration Service will contribute primarily to the following priorities and themes of the plan:

- A great place to live, work and learn;
- A place of culture to visit and explore;
- Community involvement;
- Narrowing the gap.

In order to be successful in delivering these, the executive directorate of Environment and Communities has invested in training and developing its staff – particularly its senior managers – to ensure that the new cultures and fully embedded across the organisation, including in the Registration Service. Registration staff – as with all officers of the council – are expected to display the key values of putting communities first, respect, integrity and working together and performance against these values are assessed in one to ones and mid- and end-of-year appraisals. Full details on how the Registration Service will contribute to these key aims are detailed in Section 6 – Service Delivery Objectives below.

2. The Kensington and Chelsea Registration Service

The Kensington and Chelsea Registration Service provides all statutory, and some non-statutory, registration services.

The statutory services result from various Registration Acts, in particular, the Registration of Births and Deaths Act 1953, the Marriage Act 1949 (as amended), the Civil Partnership Act 2004 and Immigration and Asylum Act 2002. These include the registration of all births, deaths and still-births occurring within the boundaries of the Royal Borough of Kensington and Chelsea; the attestation of notices of marriage and civil partnerships; the conducting (where appropriate) and registering of marriages, civil partnerships and marriage to civil partnership conversions occurring within the registration district; the conducting of citizenship ceremonies; the maintaining of all deposited registers of births, deaths and marriages and issuing certified copies of the entry when possible; assisting Clergy, Secretaries and Authorised Person with the registration of marriages; and all associated administration.

The non-statutory services result from the relaxations in the Local Government Act 2003 regarding previous restrictions on what services a local authority can and cannot provide. The non-statutory services currently offered are naming ceremonies; renewal of vows; commitment ceremonies; and EU Settlement Scheme assistance (EuSS).

The registration district of Kensington and Chelsea has as its boundaries the same as that of the Royal Borough of Kensington and Chelsea. The borough is bordered by the London Borough of Hammersmith and Fulham to the west; Wandsworth across the River Thames to the south; Brent to the north and the City of Westminster to the east. There is just one registration district, which is comprised of one sub-district which has the same boundaries covering the whole of the borough.

The Registration Service is operated by the Local Authority working with the Registration Officers and the HM Passport Office (General Register Office).

The council's Bi-borough Director of Libraries, Archives and Registration Services, Mike Clarke, is appointed as Proper Officer for all registration matters. Registration and Ceremonies Officers are personally responsible for the performance of their duties under the direction of the Registrar General and the Proper Officer.

The Royal Borough of Kensington and Chelsea currently employs 41 members of staff in the Registration Service. These are one Head of Registration Service, three Registration Team Managers, 16 Registration and Ceremonies Officers, 19 Registration and Ceremonies Officers (Sessional), 1 Registration Service Apprentice, and 1 Ceremonies Usher. There are currently three principal officer posts: one superintendent registrar, one registrar of births and deaths, and one additional registrar. These posts are held by the three team managers in the Registration Service.

Registration services are provided from the Kensington and Chelsea Register Office, Chelsea Old Town Hall, King's Road, London, SW3 5EE. Public citizenship ceremonies are delivered from the Kensington Town Hall, Hornton Street, London W8 7NX.

The Kensington and Chelsea Registration Service's opening hours are Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday 08:00 to 17:00, Thursday 08:00 to 19:00, Saturday 10:00 to 18:00. We offer an on call service for same day burials and cremations on Sundays from 09:00 to 10:00.

The contact details for the Register Office are:

An out of hours service is provided from 09.00 to 10.00 on Sundays and most Public Holidays where a member of staff is on call to deal with emergencies, usually deaths requiring a same-day burial or cremation in line with religious custom. The Royal Borough's Local Authority Liaison Officer via the Out of Hours service provides the necessary contact details. Members of the public requiring this service should call 0207 361 3000.

Marriage Ceremonies and Civil Partnership Registrations may take place by appointment in Approved Premises seven days a week.

3. Service Standards

Under the current governance arrangements, the Registration Service Act 1953 confers upon the Local Authority obligations and powers in regard to the registration of births, deaths and marriages. The current local Scheme as amended came into operation on 1st June 2005 and is known as "The Kensington and Chelsea Registration (Amendment) Scheme 2005".

Under this Scheme, the Royal Borough of Kensington and Chelsea commits to achieving the national service delivery standards contained in both the Code of Practice for Local Registration Authorities in England and Wales and in its accompanying Good Practice Guide, jointly developed by the GRO and The National Panel for Registration.

We will report on our performance against these targets within two months of the end of the financial year and publicise this performance on our website and in the Register Office. We will also report at the same time in our annual performance report to the Registrar General against the key performance indicators noted below:

Events accurately registered within statutory timeframe:

- i). National Standard: 98% of births and still-births registered within 42 days;
- ii). National Standard: 90% of deaths (excl. post mortem and inquest cases) registered within 5 days;

Customer satisfaction:

National Standard: 95% of customers satisfied with our service.

Our achievement against the targets of all our standards continues to be publicly available on our website.

4. Procedures for Complaints, Suggestions and Consultation

Complaints and Suggestions

The Council of the Royal Borough of Kensington and Chelsea aims to provide excellent services to all our customers but recognises occasionally things may go wrong. Complaints are welcomed because they can provide us with an opportunity to put things right if we have made an error, and also allow us to monitor trends that we can react to, to make sure the same mistake does not happen again. Corporate leaflets are freely available in reception and all the interview rooms.

Customers are encouraged to contact us directly via telephone, e-mail, or by letter should they have a compliment, comment or complaint.

The Royal Borough of Kensington and Chelsea also has a Corporate Comments, Complaints and Compliments online form which customers of the Registration Service are encouraged to use. This page also provides contact details for Council directors should a customer wish to address a complaint, comment or compliment directly to them.

The Registration Service complies with this policy. Details of complaints are monitored by the Superintendent Registrar and, if necessary, details are forwarded to the Proper Officer. In the period 1st April 2019 – 31st March 2020 there were 10 formal complaints from around 80,000 customer interactions, all of which were deemed not serious and were easily rectified with learning points incorporated. There were 299 written instances of customer praise.

The complaints procedure in more detail:

Informal stage

If you are already dealing with a Council officer or you know which officer to contact, you may wish to raise an issue face-to-face, by telephone, email or in writing. Often, matters can be resolved at this stage. If you are unsure about which part of the Council is responsible, please telephone Enquiryline on 020 7361 3000.

Stage 1

If you are unhappy about the response to your initial complaint, you should tell the officer with whom you have been dealing that you wish to take your complaint further. Or you might wish to complete our Comments, complaints and compliments and send it to the relevant department.

If you are complaining about the way in which a particular officer has dealt with you, your complaint will be looked into by a third party. Your complaint will be acknowledged. You should receive a full reply within 15 working days.

Send us your feedback complete the Comments, complaints and compliments online form.

Stage 2

If you are dissatisfied with the response to Stage 1, let us know. The head of the relevant section will investigate further and should respond fully within 15 working days

Stage 3

If you are still unhappy, the relevant Director or Executive Director will review your complaint and respond within 15 working days.

If, having received a response from the Director or Executive Director, you wish to take the matter further you can take up your complaint with the Local Government Ombudsman.

The Local Government Ombudsman

The Local Government Ombudsman is an independent service that investigates complaints about councils. You can seek advice from the ombudsman at any time but they will refer a complaint back to us if you have not been through our complaints procedure.

Consultation Procedure

There are various ways in which our customers can have a say on how we run our services, which are detailed here.

The Kensington and Chelsea Registration Service aims to put citizens at the heart of decisions taken to improve the service. We therefore abide by our Customer Engagement Strategy.

Where staff are consulted for changes, the Royal Borough of Kensington and Chelsea follows its policy which is detailed below:

STAFF CONSULTATION

Staff consultation means the exchange of views and establishment of dialogue between the employer and the employees or employee representatives

OBJECTIVE

To consult with staff and elected employee representatives over proposed changes which affect staff in order:

- to gain commitment to new methods of working
- to ensure that staff are aware of what is happening
- to identify problems and to examine solutions
- to promote good employee relations and to resolve conflict or differences
- to consider Human Resources policies where joint agreement is needed.

SCOPE

The need to consult applies specifically to proposals which will have a direct impact on staff as employees, e.g. revised organisational structures, changes which may affect post grading, redundancies, new working patterns, displacement, new Human Resources policies which change conditions of employment.

The objectives of good communication and gaining staff commitment also apply to changes in service provision and policies generally.

PROCEDURE

Who is to initiate consultation?

The responsibility for initiating consultation rests with the manager of the service concerned. Staff justifiably look to their manager for information.

Where a change concerns two or more departments, directors should agree how consultation is to be handled.

Human Resources staff are available to advise throughout the consultation process where required.

Discussion on Human Resources procedures or policies should be initiated by the Human Resources function.

Who to consult

Formal union consultation is with elected employee representatives. Normally, this would be with departmental level representatives, but, if it is a major issue or if there is no suitable departmental representative, a branch official should be involved

The staff affected must also be briefed as to what is being considered. Good consultation at this level will, of course, ease the way for formal consultation

When to consult

If an organisational review is being proposed the staff concerned and the employee representatives should be briefed as early as possible - ideally at the start. They should be told about the purposes and the scope of the exercise, and invited to offer suggestions. Both staff and employee representatives should be given a timescale for response, normally two weeks. A longer time may be requested by the trade unions if deemed necessary. It is important to note that the law requires employers to begin to consult where they are "contemplating" redundancies i.e. when an employer is first envisaging the possibility that an employee may be made redundant.

In the course of an organisational review, dialogue should be maintained with the employee representatives, and with staff who are not represented with meetings to explain progress and plans which are evolving.

When the proposals have been firmed up, a copy of the key decision or management decision report should be passed to the trade unions; where applicable this should be at the same time that it is being circulated to Management Board. The trade unions should normally be given two weeks to comment. It is the relevant director who is responsible for forwarding this copy.

Occasionally, of course, decisions need to be finalised urgently and the whole procedure accelerated. All the same, genuine consultation should still take place as soon as possible, the objective being to minimise rumour and misapprehension. j

REPORTING CONSULTATION

Key decision reports should record that there has been consultation and what the outcome was. If it is straightforward and there are no objections, the wording is simple. If there are objections, these should be described, perhaps with a comment as to what efforts were made to meet the concerns. The date when consultation took place should be recorded. Examples:

Staff Consultation

The trade union has been consulted about this proposal on..... and has no objection.

or

The trade union has been consulted on this proposal and makes the following representations:
" (quote trade union's submission or attach/refer to separate paper)".

The formal mechanism for trade unions to make representation to elected members is at the Joint Staffing Panel.

5. Business Continuity Plan

Kensington and Chelsea has a Corporate Business Continuity Plan which provides a framework for the restoration of Council services should their delivery be interrupted by an unexpected event or series of events outside the Council's control. Registration Services is included within this plan.

A copy of the Council's Business Continuity Plan for Registration Service is available on request. It contains details of how to deal with: unavailability of registration certificates, forms or current registers; lack of access to buildings and deposited registers; how and when stakeholders are notified of changes or restrictions to accessing the service during a contingency incident; IT systems failure; significant variations in service delivery including a flu pandemic; plans and arrangements for dealing with severe weather conditions and non-attendance at ceremonies; and ensuring policies and procedures are in place to deal with such events.

The plan has recently been used to assist the service in meeting the challenges associated with the global coronavirus pandemic.

The plan is updated annually, and is imminently to be updated onto a new corporate business continuity plan database which will allow departments to better work together and share resources when the plan's instigation is required.

6. Service Development Objectives for 2020 - 2021

The Registration Service at the Royal Borough of Kensington and Chelsea is dedicated to service improvement delivery for customers. We expect to make significant achievements in 2020-21 which are detailed below.

1. Following the effects that the Covid-19 pandemic has had on usual service delivery, we will implement a robust recovery plan to ensure that the service gets back on track to meeting statutory and operational KPI standards over the forthcoming year – including income recovery – in a way which ensures the safety of our service users and employees. Where appropriate the service will engage with GRO to provide suggestions as to how the civil registration system could reform and improve, to ensure that it continues to meet the expectations of the public, retaining if possible and legally permissible, the telephone registration of deaths and still-births and expanding it to new areas.
2. We will look into alternative models for ceremony delivery which will ensure fees charged for ceremonies better reflect the associated costs and value thereof, and will help us to develop the ceremonies business of the registration service.
3. We will look to introduce an improved diary solution to improve the online customer service experience.
4. We will introduce the marriage schedule system, and look to make preparations for potential recommendations resulting from the Law Commission's review into marriages. As part of this, will strengthen and expand our celebrant offer.
5. We will strengthen our engagement with service users, customers and stakeholders, to implement improvements to our service resulting from this feedback.
6. We will implement a business development strategy to encourage stronger stakeholding networks, improved service and increased income generation to ensure the costs of running the registration service are recovered.
7. We will continue to improve our marketing and communications efforts, to include various technical additions to our website.
8. We will continue to invest in the training, development, and health and wellbeing of our employees.

These aims are in line with the following priorities and themes of the Royal Borough of Kensington and Chelsea's Council Plan:

- A great place to live, work and learn;
- A place of culture to visit and explore;
- Community involvement;
- Narrowing the gap.
